The closure of Al-Dar Newspaper

It has been our pledge to the political system in Kuwait and a long time ago that he takes care of all the rights and freedoms and uphold the work of democratic a method of governance in the country, as we know it is serious about preserving the right of expression and press freedom, which is confirmed by the Kuwaiti Constitution stands, in particular in article 36 and 37.

The Freedom of expression of opinion, one of the main human rights guaranteed by the Constitutions, and includes most of the constitutions of democratic countries in the world texts emphasizes the respect for this right and remain intact, while Islam is prepared by the right and duty at the same time. With all that we surprised the decision of the Ministry of Information and the decision to close the Al-Dar newspaper, which reflect the opinion of a large segment of the people of Kuwait in a country that guarantees freedom for all its citizens.

This decision might lead to damage national unity among Kuwaitis, and we fear that it does not stop when you close the newspaper, but may result in the suppression of any voice of a national free would show the truth and presented it through various media, and that Such actions would irritate the international organizations sponsoring issue of press and media and human rights in the countries of the free world, and with our belief that the rulers of Kuwait are not satisfied or convinced with such action.

Sincerely

Director of Shia Rights Watch
